We want to thank everyone who showed up at the Blue Crab for Amy Nicole and Zydeco Soul last night, she played better than we've ever heard. The weather was perfect, a little cool at first but after the second dance the coats started coming off. We had a good crowd, Nick the owner of the Blue Crab seemed happy, we'll just have to wait and see if he was happy enough to continue the dances next year. Like we always say "you show up the dances continue, you don't show up the dances go away".

Tuesday night in New Orleans will be the final Whiskey River class for the month, so make sure that you have us work with you on any steps that you may be having trouble with. Remember that even though we'll be teaching Zydeco next, beginning November 29th, we always work with our full time students, when they join us out dancing, on any dance steps that we teach, Cajun Jitterbug, Cajun Two-Step, Zydeco, Whiskey River, the Waltz, and Jamaica. But we can't know what steps you want us to work on with you unless you tell us. We want you to be the best dancer that you choose to be, so when we ask you to dance let us know what you need to work on.

Geno Delafosse and the French Rockin' Boogie Zydeco Band will be at Rock and Bowl next Thursday night but unfortunately we won't. We'll be in Perdido Key, FL for Thanksgiving and racing in Orange Beach, AL on Saturday, so you're on your own

We're still working on our December Calendar so that you don't miss anything continue to check the Calendar regularly.

Since Tuesday is the last Whiskey River class for the month it's also graduation night. If you check our Face Book page and the Photos on our Website you'll see that we take and post a picture with all of our students (graduates, returning students, and those who are there for the last class). So be sure to make it to class and celebrate with the graduates.

Finally, please check out the advertisements below from some of our present full time students. You see these people every week in class or out dancing, so if you can use any of their services let's keep it in house. If you want to add your name and advertisement to this list see us in class. All we need is your business card so that we can have all of your information. This is a free service that we extend to our present full time students so take advantage of it.
